UCI Writing Project presents...

2018 Annual Literacy Conference for Teachers, Grades K-12

Creating Engaged Learning Experiences for Readers and Writers

Learn how to keep the rigor and ditch the mortis!

Thursday, December 6, 2018
8:00 a.m. - 3:45 p.m.

Keynote Speakers:
Cris Tovani
Ralph Fletcher

writingproject.uci.edu
Cris Tovani is an internationally known consultant who focuses on issues of disciplinary reading, writing instruction, and assessment of secondary learners. A teacher of grades 1-12 for 33 years, she applies reading and writing research to all levels of learners and helps teachers “see” different ways to engage their students. She was awarded the 2017 Thought Leader award from the International Literacy Association and has been an adjunct professor at the University of Colorado and the University of Denver. She is the author of No More Telling as Teaching: Less Lecture, More Engaged Learning; I Read It, but I Don’t Get It; Do I Really Have to Teach Reading? and So, What Do They Really Know? (Heinemann).

Ramping Up Engagement: Capturing the Mind, Heart, and Drive of Students

When students are behaviorally, emotionally, and cognitively engaged, learning happens. Teachers who plan ahead for each type of engagement ensure that more students will not only do the work, but also grow as readers, writers, and thinkers. During this keynote, Cris Tovani will share different ways to increase students’ agency and urgency. Participants will have an opportunity to explore what makes learning compelling and investigate how having a purpose for reading and writing creates learners who want to do important work.

Ralph Fletcher is the award-winning author of more than 20 books for children and young adults, including Fig Pudding (Clarion); Flying Solo (Scholastic); Twilight Comes Twice (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt); and Marshfield Dreams: When I Was a Kid (Henry Holt). A mentor to young writers everywhere and also to teachers, he has also authored many bestselling teacher professional books, including What a Writer Needs; Craft Lessons; and Writing Workshop: The Essential Guide (Heinemann). His newest professional books include Joy Write: Cultivating High-Impact, Low Stakes Writing (Heinemann) and The Writing Teacher’s Companion: Embracing Choice, Voice, Purpose, and Play (Scholastic). His second memoir Marshfield Memories: More Stories About Growing Up is in press.

Re-energizing the Writing Classroom by Lifting the Chill and Re-igniting the Spark

Recently, the writing landscape has become so academic that some of the spark has gone out of the writing classroom. During this keynote, Ralph Fletcher will look at what we can do to re-energize the writing classroom by giving students time and autonomy to engage in playful, low stakes writing that can lead to surprising, high level growth.
